

The Cow Went Over The Mountain

Digitized by the Internet Archive
in 2013

http://archive.org/details/isbn_B000O1RQVG

The Cow Went Over The Mountain

By Jeanette Krinsley
Illustrated by Feodor Rojankovsky

A Golden Book • New York
Western Publishing Company, Inc., Racine, Wisconsin 53404

Copyright © 1963 by Western Publishing Company, Inc.

All rights reserved. Printed in the U.S.A.

No part of this book may be reproduced or copied in any form without written permission from the publisher.

GOLDEN®, GOLDEN & DESIGN®, A LITTLE GOLDEN BOOK®, and
A GOLDEN BOOK® are trademarks of Western Publishing Company, Inc.
Library of Congress Catalog Card Number: 82-83090 ISBN 0-307-03045-8

M N O P Q R S T

One day Little Cow said to her mother,
“I’m going over to the other mountain.
The grass is munchier over there.”
“Very well,” said Mother Cow.

So away went Little Cow,
and soon she met a little frog.

"Come along with me, Little Frog," she said.
"I'm going over to the other mountain.
The bugs are much crunchier there."

So Little Frog jumped up on Cow's back,
and they walked along together.
Soon they met a little white duck.

“Come with us,”
said Cow to Little White Duck.
“We are going to the other mountain.
The water is much sploshier there.”
So Duck went too.

Down the road they walked
till they met a pig.

“Come along with us, Little Pig,” said Cow.

“We are going over to the other mountain.

The mud is much sloshier there.”

So Pig went too,
and they walked along together
and sang a silly song.

*"The grass is munchier.
The bugs are crunchier."*

"The water is sploshier.

The mud is sloshier."

Then they saw a bear, so they sang,

"The honey is gooier."

And Bear said, "I'll come too."

And they walked and walked and walked.

When they got to the other mountain,
they all sat down to rest.

And they were so tired
that they soon fell asleep.

In the morning they woke with the sun,
very hungry and all ready to eat.
BUT—

The grass was not munchier.

The bugs were not crunchier.

The water was not sploshier.

The mud was not sloshier.

The honey was not gooier.
It just was not true,
all that Little Cow had said.
And everyone felt sad and blue,
till all at once Cow jumped up.

“Look,” she said.

“We are on the wrong mountain.”

And as she pointed they all agreed that the other mountain was greener.

So they started out again
and walked and walked and walked.

Down, down, down they went
till they came to the bottom of the mountain.
Then—

Up, up, up they climbed.
Then they stopped,
and what do you think they found?

And they laughed and laughed and laughed.

Internet Archive
The Cow Went Over the Mountain
ISBN: B00001RQVG
UsedGood

2012-09-08
E1237C3
1

